Colonel and Mrs. Joseph E. Willard and Miss Belle Willard have gone to Greenwood, where they are the guests of Miss Ella Buck and Mr. and Mrs. William Mastic at "Rose Hill" for several days. Miss Ella Lindsey, who has also been a guest of Miss Buck at "Rose Hill," returned to Richmond Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Moncure Perkins has returned to the city after a visit to Greenwood. At the Woman's Club.

The opening musical at the Woman's Club yesterday afternoon proved a most interesting and delightful affair, and the club parlors were filled with handsomely gowned women for the occasion. Mrs. Channing M. Ward, pianist, and Miss Blanche Thomas, soprano, rendered the program arranged for the afternoon, and Miss Myrtle Redford accompanied Miss Thomas on the piano. Mrs. Ward, who has lately come to Richmond from Chicago, is an artist of the most finished ability, and the audience gathered at the Woman's Club was very enthusiastic in its reception. Miss Thomas has a voice as sweet and pure as a May blossom, and her songs were charming. Both of the artists who were heard in the recital yesterday are musicians of a great deal of talent and cultivation, and the concert was a very pleasing one.

The following program was rendered:

I. Chopin Suite: (a) Valse Brillante, Op. 34, No. 1; (b) Prelude, B. Flat Major, No. 21; (c) Ballade, G Minor, Op. 23; (d) Mazurka, B Minor, Op. 33; (e) Polonaise, A Major, Op. 46.

Mrs. A. E. Guigon is chairman of the music committee, which has as its members, Miss Ryland and Miss Anne Louise Reinhardt. The club parlors were decorated in red leaves and white chrysanthemums.

On Wednesday afternoon the Literary Round Table will meet at half-past 4 o'clock, with Mrs. John Muncie as chairman. The afternoon will be turned over to Mrs. J. W. Durham, who will address the members on the subject of her trip to Jerusalem. Mrs. Durham is leaving Richmond with her husband for Roanoke November 1, and her address to-morrow afternoon will be in the nature of farewell to the club, of which she has been a valuable member for such a long time. She has not only been useful and interested in taking up the minor duties of a club member, but has been one of the most prominent women in the literary progress and development of

The choir of the church, with Miss Willie Ada Smith at the organ, will sing "Arie, Sweet Maiden." Mrs. Gilmore Ward Bryant will sing "Sweetheart," with a violin obligato by Miss Johnson, and the full choir will sing the bridal chorus from Lohengrin when the bride and her attendants enter the church.

Miss Coleman's Recital.

On Thursday evening, October 17, at Emporia, Miss Sara Wortham Coleman, assisted by Mrs. A. N. Goodwyn, gave a recital under the auspices of the Civic Improvement League. Miss Coleman's art is of the highest order, without a trace of artificiality or affectation, and her readings were chosen for their literary merit and moral worth.

Nothing could be more artistic than her rendition of "Ave Maria," with a musical accompaniment by Mrs. Goodwyn. She gave a new conception of Owen Meredith's beautiful poem. In the "Swiss Good-Night," her voice showed clear and melodious, responsive to every emotion.

Mrs. Goodwyn is a delightfully sympathetic accompanist, and her exquisite music added much to the success of the evening.

The instrumental numbers by Misses Sallie Bailey and Ruth Water were most enthusiastically applauded, and the charming songs of Mr. Potter and Mr. Lovelace added greatly to the program of the evening.

for years pastor of the Allen Avenue Christian Church, has resigned and accepted a call to a church in Columbus, O., and will shortly leave for his new charge.

The Marshall Street Christian Church, with Rev. George W. Kemper as pastor, has outgrown its present house of worship, and for some time has been considering the proposition to rebuild. On the corner of Allen and Hanover Avenues the Allen Avenue Church has but recently erected a splendid new church, which can easily be made to accommodate the two congregations. In case of consolidation Mr. Kemper will occupy the pulpit.

The Allen Avenue Church has a congregation of 211 members, while the roll of the older, Marshall Street church, shows about 60 communicants.

MAKES GREAT RECORD

Hastings Court Clears Big Docket in Remarkably Quick Time.

Judge D. C. Richardson has established a remarkable record for the present term of the Hastings Court, the first at which he has presided. When court convened on October 3 there were 32 cases on the docket for trial. Of this number 13 have been disposed of. Sixty-three of these were felonies, while 23 were misdemeanors. This leaves but thirty-nine cases to be tried, and the court has nearly a week before the beginning of the November term.

Were Disorderly on Cars.

Two men were fined $10 each yesterday in Police Court for being disorderly on street cars. Clyde Kemler was arrested for disorderly conduct on a Richmond and Henric Railway car at Ninth and Broad Streets. Chas. Brown, colored, was convicted of using profanity and refusing to move his seat aboard a car of the Virginia Railway and Power Company.

Justice Crutchfield Out.

Police Justice Crutchfield, who has been confined to his home for several days by illness, was able to be out yesterday. It is expected he will resume his work upon the bench to-day.

CHURCHES TO MERGE

Allen Avenue and Marshall Street Churches to Merge.

For the best part of a century the Allen Avenue Christian Church and the Marshall Street Christian Church have been distinct organizations, and the two churches have been working for the betterment of the community. It is understood that the leaders of both churches favor the consolidation, but the plan for the merger has not yet been decided.

Two compelling facts are driving the churches to unite: The Allen Avenue congregation is composed of about 211 members, and the Marshall Street church has about 60 communicants. The two churches have a combined membership of about 271, and it is believed that the merged church would be able to attract a larger number of worshippers.

Sanford, president of the Adams Express Company, who is now Lady de Bathe, who likewise secured judgment against him for money loaned. He is subject to catarrhs only in England, but also on the Continent, where he won unenviable notoriety by backing out of a duel.

The young French Duke of Decazes, who, through his mother, the late Isabel Singer, is half American, has not permitted the recent death of his father to delay his marriage. In fact, it may be questioned whether the demise of the late and third duke does not assist the match, since he objected to it on the plea that it was a mesalliance.

The girl, however, belongs to a perfectly respectable family, and is not altogether penniless. Her father is a merchant, in a small way, of the name of Couture, and young Decazes will in love with her and become engaged when fulfilling his military service as trooper in a dragoon regiment. Thanks to her father's influence, she has been partly brought up there, and conveys the impression, in speech, manner and appearance, of an English rather than of a French girl.

That she possesses a mind of her own is perhaps best shown by the manner in which she encouraged her husband to override all the objections by his family to the marriage; and feeling that she might experience prejudice on the part of the aristocracy and territorial magnates of the Glendore, where the Decazes' chateau and estate of La Grave is situated, she has caused him to purchase a place on the River Nonette, near Chantilly, and not far off from the St. Firmin property of the widowed Duchess de Chartres.

That they will live there is not at all certain. The young duke is a very rich man, and he is a member of the House of Lords. He is a member of the House of Lords, and he is a member of the House of Lords.
